

ABSTRACT

An architecture for a peer-to-peer network is disclosed which advantageously is able to maintain short fixed path length routing as the network grows.